5.0 SPECIAL PROVISIONS

In the case of extended absences, or extenuating circumstances as determined by Administration and Guidance staff, a level of achievement may be determined commensurate with that obtained for other test instruments in that semester. Special provisions may also be relevant for students with specific educational needs. It is a positive act of making reasonable adjustment to assessment requirements and conditions to ensure that assessment is equitable.

Policy on Special Provisions for School-based Assessments in Authority and Authority-registered subjects (QCAA July 2015) is as follows:

The responsibility for making decisions about special provisions lies directly with the schools. However, this policy should serve as an appropriate guide and reference for schools in making those decisions.

“Special provisions” means making reasonable adjustments to conditions of assessment to ensure equitable opportunities for all students. Special provisions may apply to any student, depending on the circumstances. In making a decision about special provisions, the school is required to consider what adjustments to assessment conditions are reasonable in the circumstances.

Exemption (allowing non-completion of some particular piece of assessment)

An exemption will only be allowed when there is sufficient alternative information to make a judgment about an exit level of achievement without the student having to complete a particular assessment instrument. For example, an exemption may be appropriate where a student has missed an assessment instrument due to illness or because of some other legitimate absence, and completing the assessment would place an unreasonable burden on the student.

An exemption is inappropriate if it results in insufficient evidence being available to make a judgment about the student’s exit level of achievement, or the student being unable to meet the mandatory requirements stated in a syllabus or study area specification.
